STEWARDSHIP

“Prepare a full account of your stewardship.” The words of the rich man to his manager in today’s Gospel are Jesus’ words to every Christian. Like the manager, God has blessed the believer with gifts of talents which the Lord expects us to use for the spread of the Gospel. The Christian steward uses gifts of Time, Talent and Treasure for the work of the Kingdom. When the Lord asks you for “a full account of your stewardship,” how will you answer?

The parish Stewardship of Treasure last week was $13,362.50. God bless the generous way you live the Gospel. A further step in your kindness, to help the parish better manage its resources, might be to use electronic giving, WeShare/Venmo. Why not give it a try?

You can support OLMC via Venmo!

Find us under “Charities” @olmcridgewoodnj or scan the QR code here.

TODAY'S READINGS

1. Amos 8:4-7

Amos, a shepherd and migrant worker in the Kingdom of Judah, is called by God to prophesy in the Northern Kingdom of Israel. He is most recognizable for exposing social injustices. Amidst the prosperity of the times, Amos preaches against the greed of the merchants whose wealth comes at the expense of the poor whom they regularly cheat. In addition, these merchants devalue the festivals and the Sabbath by scheming to continue their dishonest practices even as they offer their prayers to Yahweh, the protector of the poor.

2. 1Timothy 2:1-8

The author, and his readers, are still living in the throes of the harsh persecution of Domitian. And so, they are exhorted to pray for everyone, including civil authority, without anger or argument. The reason cited for this approach is the author's insistence that God wills all to be saved, even those who persecute the faithful. All this flows from the truth that Jesus is the one mediator between God and all human beings.

3. Luke 16:1-13

One of the more controversial parables, this excerpted text contains a seeming contradiction. The dishonest manager is also presented as someone to be imitated. Having been discovered to be a squanderer of his master's resources, the manager knows he will be dismissed. To ensure he will have open doors for his future, the steward foregoes his own commission, reducing what is owed to his master. He is willing to sacrifice his immediate profit for the sake of future benefits. Thus, he is praised for the clever and shrewd way he prepares for the future. Christians, likewise, should be so shrewd in preparing for the life to come.

REFLECTIONS FOR THE WEEK

1. What do I need to learn from today's Gospel? How resourceful am I when it comes to living and announcing the Gospel message?
2. Do I use the worldly gifts God has given me, whatever they may be, as tools for the spreading of the Gospel?
3. Does our consumerist culture we live in still "trample upon the needy and destroy the poor of the land"?
